Dear Akram Atallah,

I met with Christine Willet while attending the ICANN 51 meeting on October 17, and was advised neither you or the ICANN CEO Fadi Chehade was available for follow up on my unanswered questions regarding the Nameshop new gTLD application evaluation for the .internet string.

I was also advised that it would be inappropriate for Fadi Chehade to inquire further in these issues but that I may petition the Ombudsman or to the IRP. And before I take any action, I must check for any limitations applied. Needless to say, this directive is opaque enough for clarification.

If the position of your organization is that ICANN's internal processes would not address the gaps I have outlined in the evaluation review processes, would you be kind enough and give me clear and certain pointers as to what processes are available to me for relief?
